

University of Basel

Faculty of Business and Economics

Global Supply Chains and International Business Cycle

Public Lecture
Prof. Dr. Andrei Levchenko

Thursday, November 28, 2024, 18.15h
WWZ Auditorium

«Global Supply Chains and International Business Cycle»

Prof. Dr. Andrei Levchenko, John W. Sweetland Professor of International Economics at the University of Michigan

After decades of globalization, production has become a global activity, with supply chains overlapping with country borders. Participation in the global supply chains exposes countries to foreign business cycle shocks and supply chain disruptions. This talk will discuss a research program that builds sophisticated yet tractable and transparent models of the global supply chain and uses them to analyze cross-border transmission of shocks and the nature of international business cycle comovement.

Program

Thursday, November 28, 2024, 18.15h

18.15h	Welcome Prof. Dr. Alois Stutzer
18.20h	Lecture
19.00h	Public Discussion
19.15h	Apéro

WWZ Auditorium, Peter Merian-Weg 6, Basel

Andrei Alexandrovich Levchenko is the John W. Sweetland Professor of International Economics at the University of Michigan, Editor-in-Chief of IMF Economic Review, and the Director of the International Trade and Macroeconomics program of the Central Bank Research Association.

Educating Talents
since 1460.

University of Basel
Faculty of Business and Economics
Peter Merian-Weg 6
4002 Basel
Switzerland

dekanat-wwz@unibas.ch
wwz.unibas.ch